Introduction

I had the fantastic opportunity to visit the Synagogue Church of All Nations (SCOAN) in Lagos, Nigeria. My family and I are partners of SCOAN in the UK. I was eager to embark on a pilgrimage trip to visit the Church.

In December 2018, I booked a trip to visit SCOAN. I was very happy to see the prayer mountain and spend time in spiritual reflection there.

Overall, the visit exceeded my expectations, and I had an incredible vision of angels and Jesus while praying at the altar one morning. This vision has had a profound impact on my spiritual journey.

Arrival at SCOAN

In December 2018, after breakfast at 9 a.m., I decided to visit the Church and pray at the altar.

While in the Church, I removed my shoes, went to the corner, and sat on the floor, facing directly to the altar.

I was singing in my heart consistently with my eyes shut. I was also meditating in my heart consistently.

The Vision

After a while, I felt "goose pimples" on my body (it felt like my body was numb, but my spirit was very active).

Then, I saw countless young angels dressed in white dancing in circles on the altar. The dancing was so unique and exciting to watch.

As the Angels danced in circles, the circles split, and they formed another circle immediately and continued to dance and fly around. They were full of energy and very happy.

As I was watching the Angels dance, I pondered, "Why do they dance so well?"

"This must have taken so much practice."

I also saw a very tall, bright man standing on the first stairs of the altar. I couldn't see his face because of his height; he wore a long, bright white robe.

He was barefoot; I saw the scar on his foot and realised it was Jesus. He wasn't dancing. He was standing!

Seeing Angels

I kept singing and meditating in my heart nonstop because I liked what I was watching.

Suddenly, my spirit returned to my body, and I didn't see the angels or Jesus again.

When I checked the time, it was 3 p.m. I was shocked at how I could spend so much time without lunch. Lunchtime is usually at 12 p.m.

I returned to the lodge, and the dinner ladies were surprised to see me. They said, "Sister, where have you been? We didn't see you at lunchtime." They offered me lunch because I was hungry at that point.

Seeing Jesus

As I was watching the angels dance, I pondered, "Why do they dance so well?" "This must have taken so much practice."

I also saw a very tall, bright man standing on the first stairs to the altar.

I couldn't see his face because of his height; he wore a long, bright white robe.

He was barefoot; I saw the scar on his foot and realised it was Jesus. He wasn't dancing. He was standing on the stairs.

Returning to Normal

I returned to the Church lodge, and the dinner ladies were surprised to see me. They said, "Sister, where have you been? We didn't see you at lunchtime."

They offered me lunch because I was starving at that point.

Suddenly, my spirit returned to my body, and I didn't see the angels or Jesus again.

When I checked the time, it was 3 p.m. I was shocked at how I could spend so much time without lunch. Lunchtime is usually at 12 or 1 p.m.

Telling Family

When I returned to the United Kingdom from my trip to SCOAN, I was still processing my profound spiritual experience while meditating and praying at the altar.

Although I wanted to share what happened with the Church, I initially decided to keep it to myself because I was still meditating about my experience.

The vision of the Angels dancing joyfully in circles on the altar and seeing Jesus standing tall on the altar was very personal and deeply meaningful to me.

I shared my experience and vision at SCOAN with my husband and some family members.

I described seeing the Angels gracefully dancing in circles, the circle splitting, and how they formed the circle back again perfectly.

I mentioned the brightness on the altar where Jesus was standing. I shared sensing Jesus' presence and noticing the scar on His feet.

My experience strengthened my faith and trust in God.

Emailing the Church

After returning to the United Kingdom, I emailed the church office at SCOAN to share my fantastic experience at the altar.

I described in detail the visions, as I wanted the church to know about my spiritual encounter while meditating and praying at the altar.

Sending that email was a big step for me, as I am usually private regarding spiritual matters.

However, I felt compelled in my heart to tell SCOAN about my experience. I knew my story could potentially help build the faith of others.

Phone Call from Prophet TB Joshua

After I emailed the church about my experience there, I got several phone calls from the church office one evening, but then I was at the gym.

My husband answered and told them I was at the gym, so they said they would call back later.

At midnight, at about 12 a.m., I got a call from the Church. A male evangelist passed the phone to Prophet TB Joshua, and he said, "I usually wake you up at this time to pray."

I was shocked and speechless because I never expected to speak to such an anointed man of God.

Prophet TB Josuah spoke with me on the phone. He said, "I know what you saw. There is a reason why God has decided to show you this vision and reveal it to you."

He also said, "Spend time to meditate and ask God why he revealed this to you."

He said something shocking: "What you saw has always been there, but only one out of millions has such encounters in a year as you did." When I heard this, I was surprised. I imagined, "Why me!"

In Conclusion

Reflecting on my experiences at SCOAN and the visions I was blessed to receive further confirms my belief that we must all seek the truth for ourselves.

No one can find the truth for us - it is a personal journey we must take, asking God to open our spiritual eyes and reveal His truths to us.

We cannot simply accept what we are told without testing it against God's Word.

The Bible instructs us to "test everything; hold fast what is good"(1 Thessalonians 5:21). We are also told that the Holy Spirit will lead us into all truth (John 16:13).

Therefore, I encourage everyone to pray directly to God and ask Him to unveil the truths you need to know - about your Church, pastor, ministry, or anything else.

Ask Him to give you discernment to distinguish truth from deception. He is faithful and will tell you anything you need to understand.

As you seek God wholeheartedly, focusing on His kingdom above all else, He will meet and reveal Himself to you.

This personal revelation from the Lord is the only sure way to know the truth. Let Him guide you continually into greater understanding, spiritual growth and freedom.
